

OmniWhere

Corporate E-mail Outsourcing

E-mail has reached center stage in business today.

It is the communication mode of choice for millions, and continues to enjoy exponential growth and acceptance as the lifeblood of corporate communication. As our dependence on e-mail grows, so does the load that individual company IT teams must deal with. And with this increased load comes inefficiency and decreased productivity.

As a leader in the outsourced messaging industry, OmniWhere brings focus and simplicity to corporate e-mail. Small businesses look to OmniWhere for our economies of scale, minimal integration time, and access to a first-tier enterprise system. Larger businesses know that a powerful, reliable system comes through focus and constant attention. Read on to find out how OmniWhere provides that attention, and how your corporate communications worldwide can be powered by OmniWhere.

Benefits

The choice to use OmniWhere e-mail service is easy to make because it benefits your company.

Lower Cost

The OmniWhere corporate e-mail plan lends our economies of scale to your bottom line. By outsourcing to OmniWhere, companies do away with development, maintenance and upgrade costs.

Smart Use of Company Resources

While you spend time doing business, we spend time making sure your messaging is always up and secure. By not focusing on the day-to-day commitment of messaging, your IT team can work on developing your technological presence. OmniWhere also simplifies administrative control while letting you retain full command of all messaging at your domain name.

Professional Messaging

Our value as a messaging provider is established upon two points: Reliability and security. Reliability is enhanced through our use of the Unix platform running Java on Sun Solaris servers. These three names represent the best that the messaging industry has to offer. Security is ensured at every stage of the message transaction through multiple firewalls, encryption, SSL, and password tokens.

Features

Inbox

Your inbox contains all of the industry accepted e-mail functions, such as full attachment support, forwarding, reply, and reply all features. Mail can be accessed online through a web-based interface when you are away from the office, or you can access it through a desktop mail program such as Microsoft Outlook.

Calendar

Keeps you up to date on important events.

Scheduling

Our auto-remind feature brings your important events to your attention.

Address Book

Maintain a high-function address book to store important contact information online.

Message Storage

Store your past communications for future reference.

Web Drive

Keep your important files online to access from wherever you are.

File Share

Share your files online with team members worldwide.

Additional Products

As a leader in the messaging industry, we also have expertise in computer telephony integration. OmniWhere serves the online community with the following products:

Unified Messaging (UMS)

OmniWhere powers branded unified messaging for web sites. Through one inbox and one phone number, web site users enjoy voicemail, fax, and e-mail in one location, accessible through the web or phone interface.

Unified Communications (UCS)

OmniWhere Unified Communications takes it a step further by offering advanced features beyond the standard UMS account. Outbound international calling, receiving faxes to any fax machine and Telefollow™ phone forwarding are only a few of the features.

About Us

OmniWhere is the messaging division of Utopia Communication, Inc. Utopia, headquartered in Fremont, Calif., was founded in 1999. It maintains offices on three continents.

Contact Us

One of our representatives is eager to discuss integrating our system with your company.

3420 Gateway Blvd.
Second Floor
Fremont, CA 94538
(510) 979-9300

bizdev@corp.omniwhere.com
<http://www.omniwhere.com>